Funeral of James Largie—Hard Work-ing Thief Visits Clothing Store.

The funeral of James Largie held Monday morning from All Hallows church, Rev. J. H. Broderick officiating. Mr. Largie had been a resident of this village for seven years. He was 74 years old and leaves a widow. The body was taken to Womester for burial.

Clothing Store Burglarized. The clothing store of Goldberg Bros. was entered some time during last Wednesday night and clothing and Wednesday night and clothing and other goods taken. The store was entered by the rear basement door. The door was bound with heavy iron and in an effort to force an entrance this was bent, which showed that considerable strength was used. A large window in the door was smashed in making a hole large enough for a person to crawl in. The intruder then encountered a hallway with another door, and this was protected by a heavy crossbar. Evidently familiar with the arrangements, the visitor spent considerable time in trying to cut a hole through the door, but being haffied, smashed in the board partition, which gave free entrance to the store. Mr. Goldberg says that several suits are missing, and also some jewelry, watches and neckties. The money drawer was forced open and the drawer was forced open and the w pennies it contained were taken.
